

“Planning Ahead”

By: Jack Muellerleile

“Planning Ahead” is something all of us do to one degree or another. Some of us just plan farther ahead or include various contingency plans for use if and when our primary plan does not work to our satisfaction.

At its most simple level, ‘planning’ involves answering the following questions:

1. What do I want to accomplish?
2. What tools do I have with which to work?
3. Who may be in a position to help me?
4. How much time is allotted?
5. Where can I best allocate my time?

Thereafter, “Planning Ahead” requires the setting of goals.

- Get your mind set...acquire a winning attitude
- Organize your time, materials, financial support.
- Attack your objective with relentlessness.
- Leave room for fun and frolicking.
- Stay the course, be determined & persistent.
